CHAPPIE NOTES on

ASSU's ELECTION HANDBOOK

Leland Stanford Junior Joins Daily Greeks, Picks '91 Winners

by Hugh Morris

Who better to predict the results of the 1991 ASSU Elections than the freakishly accurate Stanford Daily sports writers?

We received predictions from four living Daily football "Greeks." We also invited picks from our own "Guest Greek," Leland Stanford Junior, who is dead.

We were able to speak with the dead Leland thanks to the wonders of Magic 8-Ball technology.

"I don't think he [Leland] has a good sense of the current political winds on campus," said Mark Rogowsky, long-time Daily toad, predicting victory over little Leland.

Leland was selected due to his affiliation with Stanford University. He is buried here on the Stanford campus.

	Cameron Mackey Twice dead last among Daily crowd in football picks.	Chris Crader Finished dead first among Daily's '90 football Greeks.	Mark Rogowsky Often mistaken for being brain dead.	T.C. Hall Daily senior staff writer, not dead. Will be someday.	L. Stanford, Jr. Guest Greek. Dead.
C.O.P. winner, assuming no run-off	Students First 63%	Students First 54%	Students First 42%	Four Play 22%	It is doubtful.
Lowest vote-getting senate candidate	Virginia Elizabeth Rosas	Cameron Mackey, 1 vote	Bart Simpson, -236 votes	Nawwar Kasrawi, 5 votes from confused "No War" voters	Try again later.
Daily's fee request	79%	73.1%	88%	50% — "It's a love/hate thing"	Maybe.
Who will "control" the ASSU senate?	S.First — 10 P.Platform — 5 H & C — 4 Bart — 1	Students First 12 - 8	Students First 11-9	"Control? You mean these people actually exist?"	Answer is hazy.
Highest & lowest %s for fee requests	81% - BSU 26% - MEChA	73.1% - Daily 37% - SPOON	97% - Chaparral 1% - LSJUMB	69% 3% (both unspecified)	It is decidedly so.
How many will vote? (w/o going over)	5,326	6,097	5,151	1,500 (all who want refunds)	Yes.

NOT ONLY MIGHT THIS BE THE LAST CHAPPIE OF THE YEAR. THIS MIGHT BE THE LAST CHAPPIE. EVER.

You have probably noticed that the Chappie has continued to improve dramatically. What you might not have noticed is how these improvements have cost us. These costs, plus our inherited debt of thousands of dollars from years ago, plus the recession, could spell the end of the Chappie. Really.

Despite teetering on the edge of financial ruin, the all-volunteer Chappie has managed to entertain you with six free issues* since last April. We wish we could afford to print enough copies for everybody, but right now, we simply can't. We need our special fee request to finally get out of the hole and to expand: more issues, more copies for smaller houses, more copies for grad students, more campus pranks like last June's fake Daily.

VOTE 'YES' FOR THE CHAPPIE'S SPECIAL FEE REQUEST.

* 4/90 Election issue, 6/90 Fake Daily, 9/90 Frosh Issue, 12/90 "Sin", 4/91 "Hometowns", and this issue. Missing any? Call 723-1468 to get a free one. "Sin" available in VERY limited quantities. We gave them all away.

SPECIAL THANKS to Raul Lopez, Jason Moore, and the rest of the ASSU election staff, Stand and Deliver, Students First, Four Play, all Senate candidates, Howard Libit, the Stanford Daily Sports Department, Ruben Garcia and ASSU Publications Board, Malcolm Webb and ASSU Ad Agency, all moderators of C.O.P. debates, Leland Stanford Junior, and AIX. Advertising space in this publication was made available to all candidates. All "chart" information taken from actual interviews. Before anyone starts whining, the Elections Commission is not responsible for any potentially biased-looking material in this issue; it only subsidized the centerfold chart. May the best not get disqualified.

ELECTIONS SEEM MEANINGLESS? INJECT EXCITEMENT INTO AN OTHERWISE DULL CAMPAIGN — PLAY ASSU ELECTIONS: THE HOME VERSION.

RULES:

Play against your dorm or other groups of friends. Predict "winners" of each of the given matchups, and winners of every resulting matchup, until you have filled all brackets. The "winning" organization, slate, or amendment is that with the higher percentage vote total. You must make all predictions by 5pm, Thursday, April 18. (rules continue below)

ASSU ELECTIONS 1990-91 CHAMPION

The Chappie / Elections Commission Guide to the U-Grad Senate Race

The Election Handbook was a little on the nebulous side, to put it nicely. This page, because it helps organize candidate information in an unbiased format, was partially subsidized by the ASSU Elections Commission, in an effort to make up for the confusing Handbook. Subsidizing this page also costs much less for the Commission than a similar "serious" page would in the Daily. Both the Commission and the Chappie regret the absence of Graduate candidates, due to time and space constraints. But we're sure they're all nice people.

Did you notice...

• our observations on That Big Chart •

You would think that most candidates would be proud to be running for the ASSU Senate. Yet, 3 undergraduate candidates were so ashamed to be running that they would not even tell their own parents.

In order to maximize its own political resources, a party ought not support more than ten candidates for the undergraduate senate. Yet, 12 undergraduate candidates claim endorsements and/or "support" from the People's Platform. This should mean that either:

- a) this party is an irrational political actor, or
- b) at least 2 candidates are secretly considered "dead weight" by their own party.

The average ASSU Undergraduate Senate candidate has 5.4 holes in his or her body. The average normal human has 9.5 holes, not counting pores. (Count: 2 eyes, 2 ears, 2 nostrils, 1 mouth, 1 for pee, 1 for poo, and girls get one bonus one for babies.) Apparently, these candidates need to win like they need holes in their head.

You can't do much for Stanford from a desert island. Yet, none of the candidates chose to bring the popular tutorial "How to be Rescued From a Desert Island in Three Days or Less." Apparently, none feel dedicated enough to the Stanford community to return from that desert island as soon as possible.

Seven candidates are frosh from Larkin. It must be something in the water.

The Chappie meets every Wednesday at 8pm, at our place on the 2nd floor, Storke Publications Bldg. New blood needed. All welcome.

ASSU PUB BOARD

- does not run Pub Nights.
- provides vital $ and/or facilities to:
Actual Malice, Aurora, Chaparral, Commentary, Dial Tone, Envision, Herodotus, Montage, Outdoor Coop, PeaceMonger, Razing Cane, Release, Stanford Review, and Stanford Journal of Health and Science
- does not give $ to Release, so you can still vote for it in good conscience.
- is NOT run by ASSU tools.
- is badly in need of new stuff. We have one lonely old Mac SE for 14 publications to use for layout. It breaks. A shameful situation indeed.
- needs a +20% vote.

When you vote, click +20% for Pub Board's allocation. The publications above thank you. Remember, we are NOT responsible for Party Faces.

Hammer and Coffin SCLC Write-ins

Now, you can vote for everybody's favorite panflutist in TWO different ways:

"Zamfir, Master of the Panflute"

- World's greatest living master of the panflute
- Has sold more records than Elvis, the Beatles, and Charo combined
- Will charm you with his delightfully enchanting melodies
- Supports First Amendment protection for all forms of expression

"Master of the Panflute, Zamfir"

- World's second greatest living master of the panflute
- Has sold more records than Elvis and the Beatles, but not Charo
- Will enchant you with his charmingly delightful melodies
- Once posed (with panflute) for Robert Mapplethorpe in what has become known as the infamous "Lost Weekend"
